InterMedical™ Insurance

› Yes, it can happen to you...

Every year, people traveling to foreign countries may require emergency medical treatment, hospitalization or medical evacuation back to their home country.

Doctors and clinics or hospitals may charge you prices comparable to those charges in the U.S.

If medical evacuation is necessary, the cost to you can easily reach $50,000...or more.

› “But I have health insurance...”

Your present health care insurance may not pay for medical expenses incurred outside the U.S.; Medicare and most Medicare supplements offer little or no protection outside the U.S. and its possessions and territories.

Most medical policies, HMO's and PPO's do not pay for medical evacuation.

Without the 24/7 Worldwide Emergency Assistance Services, it can be difficult to locate adequate medical care in a foreign country or to arrange emergency medical evacuations.

› There is an inexpensive solution!

InterMedical™ is designed specifically for people who are traveling outside the U.S. and outside their home country.

If you are injured or become ill while on your trip, you can rely on InterMedical™ to reimburse you for your covered medical expenses. Major expenses can be paid directly to the medical provider and evacuation/repatriation transportation service.

With InterMedical™, you are also provided an important service through the Worldwide Emergency Assistance Service. This service is a free phone call to help you locate appropriate medical care while on your trip. It also arranges your emergency medical evacuation, escorts minor dependents home, and brings a friend or relative to your bedside if you are hospitalized overseas for an extended period.
